STORY OF THE PLAY

A group of high school actors, abandoned by their drama teacher for good reason, have to fend for themselves opening night in front of a live audience. Their first song, "We Apologize in Advance," shows just how unprepared they are! The student assistant director and the stage manager find a box of scripts which they pass out to the cast, and they try to throw something together. What follows is a rollicking show full of physical comedy, gags, and satirical re-writings from Shakespeare ("Life Is Like a Snow Globe") to Louisa May Alcott ("Dress Them Up in Drag"). Even melodrama gets a nod with a boisterous, under-a-minute-long song.

But it doesn't help. In desperation they sing the song "Intermission" with the lyrics, "This means our show is more than halfway done. Maybe Act Two will be better than Act One." In Act Two ("Back Down to Business"), the actors put their own spin on Dickens ("A Christmas Carol Rap") and Thornton Wilder ("Our Town, This Town"). Finally, they perform their "Gratuitous Number." Will it be enough to rescue this disaster before their teacher returns—if he ever does? A final number, "A Spotlight Big Enough for All," closes the show on a comically uplifting note!

MUSIC #1: OVERTURE

ANNOUNCER: (Offstage on a microphone.) Before the show begins, the producers would like to make a few apologies prior to your viewing of this fine piece of theatre.

MUSIC #2: WE APOLOGIZE IN ADVANCE

(This song can either be sung from the booth or the ANNOUNCER, complete with geeky tech headset, can enter and deliver the song like a Vegas lounge singer. Throughout the song, have the following stage action take place in mute:

- 1. An actor crosses the stage with a push broom.*
- 2. An actress walks down center and takes a picture of the crowd.*
- 3. A stagehand brings on a ridiculous prop that you already own, like a giant cactus wearing a sombrero.*
- 4. A techie enters with a boom mike and checks the levels of the room.*
- 5. An actor flirts with another actress down left, gets caught by his girlfriend who starts to yell at him in mime; he chases after her.*
- 6. An obvious prima donna walks across the stage with a bottle of water and a minion following close behind. She stops, gargles some water, motions for the minion who offers her a cup to spit in, and they exit.*
- 7. A makeup artist helps to apply a mustache on a pretty actress.*
- 8. A couple of boys help each other slip dresses over their street clothes.*
- 9. An actor has a script and practices his monologue, trying not to look at the script, but having to cheat again and again.*
- 10. The stagehand removes the giant cactus wearing a sombrero.)*

(Spotlights begin to shine all over the stage as a BIG MUSICAL FANFARE plays. After awhile the ANNOUNCER takes a breath and the spotlights stop.)

ANNOUNCER: Uh...Just Another High School Musical !

(Again spotlights begin to shine all over the stage as a BIG MUSICAL FANFARE plays. After a long awkward pause, STAGE MANAGER pops his head out and starts motioning to someone in the audience. The spotlights stop on Stage Manager and she/he looks up at the spots with a grimace.)

STAGE MANAGER: Um. Good evening. How's everybody doing tonight? Good, good...I'll be right back.

(SM disappears offstage and can be heard snapping at someone.)

SM: (Offstage.) Don't give me that. You're in this as deep as I am. Deeper. Get out here...now!

(STAGE MANAGER pushes ASSISTANT DIRECTOR out onto the stage. The SM is the uptight serious one and AD is the goofy one.)

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR: (Smiling at audience.) Hello, everyone. I'm (name of actor), the assistant director of this show and this (Roughly pulling SM out.) is (name of actor), the show's stage manager.

SM: (Visibly nervous.) Hi again...we met earlier.

AD: And we want to thank everyone for coming out tonight to...to...our play.

SM: Musical.

AD: I'm sorry? Did you say musical?

SM: Yes. Musical. So, when you're ready with Fiddler on the Roof ... (AD shakes his head no.) in Oklahoma (AD shakes his head again.) on a Carousel? You mean you don't know what musical we're putting on?

AD: Well, I thought you knew.

SM: You're the assistant director!

AD: You're the stage manager! Didn't you show up to rehearsal?

SM: Well...um...no...I had that thing and I had to...

AD: Oh right, that important date with that girl (guy) from (name of nearby town) with the hairy forehead.

SM: (S)he does NOT have a hairy forehead, (s)he just has a pronounced hairline. And besides, where were you?

AD: Well, I...uh...my grandmother died.

SM: I've known you for twelve years now and in that time you've gone through at least six dozen grandmothers!

AD: I come from a big family.

SM: Sounds more like a cult!
